

the whole continent of north america appears to be destined by divine providence to be peopled by one nation, speaking one language, professing one general system of religious and political principles, and accustomed to one general tenor of social usages and customs. — john quincy adams

TREMBLANTE

prey on the weak, reduce their world to rubble only to rise on its still-smoking ashes—the self-righteous, their prophets and their prime ministers have advocated it.

taking advantage of thy neighbour's weakness to rob him of life or bread is wrong. that is just what you will do.

you are sortzaile, ene hasiberria.

beginning with this one, each new level will be a strain for your creatures to face. to complete a level, you will need to write a new strain that survives thay level's strain. in fact, the strain you will face at any given level will be similar to the strain you will have been helped to write for the previous level.

before facing off, your strain and the one it will meet will each live in its own world, until the system starts swapping cells from one world into the other at regular intervals. only then will the two strain really duke it out. no rules, a simple goal: to survive.

reuse the strain you wrote for the last tutorial level. it will face a condemned strain, the tremblante. that will be your baptism of life.

period between cell swaps: 10 kc (VII:11.1) initial closed stage without cell swaps: 50 kc (VII:11.2)